Re: Testimonial for Myles

Attn: Allison Livingston

Dear Ms. Livingston:

Responding to your letter dated August 11, 2005, I am pleased to describe my professional experience with Myles.

I have had only one case in which Myles was called upon as an expert to testify and that was last year. My client, the contractor, was being sued by the owners for failure to complete construction of a residence on their lot. My client cross-complained for a number of items of additional work not part of the construction contract. When it became apparent that the matter would wind up in a court trial, my client called upon Myles to make an independent evaluation as to legitimacy of his claims.

Working under the pressure of time, Myles was able to view the premises and produce an detailed written analysis, point by point of some 10 to 15 items of additional work performed, including the value thereof. The written review was exhaustive and demonstrated a depth of knowledge and insight that only someone with an extensive background in the construction industry could have. The review was introduced into evidence through Myles' testimony in court. I couldn't have asked for a better analysis or witness in my case.

Very truly yours,

ROBERT H. DARROW
