October 22, 2009

I have worked with Myles on several projects and have found him to be one of the most knowledgeable experts I have ever worked with. During the development of the design, he reviewed our plans and specs and offered practical and technical alternatives that produced superior details and methods of construction to prevent moisture-related issues. During construction, his onsite review of the project was essential to establish a high level of workmanship.

Myles and his staff are team players that bring a wealth of information, experience and 'street smarts' to the table. I have recommended him whenever I have had the opportunity and look forward to working with him in the future.
