Re: Myles F. Corcoran
Dispute resolution services

Over the past eight years, I have been involved in construction dispute cases in which Myles Corcoran has also participated. In my role as a structural engineering expert, I have both consulted directly with Myles and his staff in some instances, and represented other involved parties at other times.

During the course of these proceedings, I have had the opportunity to observe Myles' skills and abilities, particularly those related to dispute resolution. What has impressed me is his ability to combine his considerable experience and knowledge of construction materials and practices with superior organizational and communication skills, both verbal and written. Additionally, he has assembled a most capable support staff. I have observed Myles' work to be a point of clarity in a process often noted for its obfuscation. Above all, Myles has impressed me with his absolute fair-mindedness, a quality which I believe has contributed considerably to his success, and ultimately to the successful resolution of disputes.

I heartily recommend Myles Corcoran to any party in need of superior conflict resolution services.

Very truly yours,

Peter J. Boyce
